

- 27 The figure below shows the currents observed in a photocell circuit as a function of the potential difference between the plates of the photocell when light beams A, B, C and D were each directed in turn at the cathode.

Which of the beams has the lowest wavelengths?