

7

Which statement is correct?

A

A ball lands on the ground and bounces. The kinetic energy changes sign because the ball changes direction.

B

A car drives up a rough slope at steady speed. The power generated by the engine equals the gravitational potential energy gained per unit time.

C

It is possible for an electric heater to be 100% efficient.

D

It is impossible for momentum to be conserved in a collision.