

- 22 In a constant flow determination of the specific heat capacity of a liquid, it is important to allow for any heat losses.

What conditions are required when repeating the experiment?

- A same temperature, heat input and flow rate
- B same temperature but different heat inputs and flow rates
- C same temperature and flow rate but different heat inputs
- D same flow rate but different temperatures and heat inputs