2   Errors in measurement may be either systematic or random.

Which of the following involves random error?

   A Not allowing for zero error on an analog voltmeter

   B Not subtracting background count rate when determining the count rate from a radioactive source

   C Stopping a stopwatch at the end of a race

   D Using the value of g as 10 N kg^{-1} when calculating weight from mass