8	Answer: C
	Since the radius is fixed and the mass travels at a constant angular velocity, its velocity is a constant, $v = r\omega$  The angle between the two velocity vectors is 60° and they both have the same magnitude, the "closed triangle" forms an equilateral triangle. Thus, $\Delta v = v = r\omega$