(Diagram not to scale)

3 C Area under the acceleration-time graph is change in velocity, hence greatest velocity at 2T. Between 2T and 3T, while the acceleration is reversed and the car slows down, it is still moving farther away from its start point because the car has not reversed its velocity – at 3T it has the same velocity as at T.

4 B At the top of the trajectory