

|   |   |                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|---|---|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 5 | D | Taking all the masses as a system, $F = 6a$ $a = F/6$ Applying <math>F = ma</math> for the 1kg mass $F - \text{Force by 2kg} = a$ $F - \text{Force by 2kg} = F/6$ $\text{Force by 2kg} = 5F/6$ |
| 6 | D | For elastic collision, momentum and total KE must be conserved                                                                                                                                        |