

|           |                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|           | $Q = 2.7 \text{ J}$                                                                                                                                                    |
| 17 | C KE is always positive, so cannot be A or B. Since at <math>t = 0</math>, displacement is 0 (i.e. at equilibrium), KE is max. |
| 18 | C                                                                                                                                                               |