

10	Answer: D The vertical component of the acceleration is the centripetal acceleration which is present since the particle is performing circular motion. The horizontal component of the acceleration causes the speed of the object to increase.
11	Answer: C