

4	Answer: D There is no vertical resultant force when the ball is still on the surface since the normal contact force balances the weight of the ball. When the ball is in mid-air, drag force opposes the motion of the ball which decreases the vertical resultant force.
5	Answer: D