

16 Which of the following statements is not true for an oscillating body when light damping is present?

- A The presence of light damping changes the period of oscillation.
- B The damping force is always in the opposite direction to the velocity of the body.
- C The presence of light damping changes the maximum potential energy of the body.
- D The damping force is always in the opposite direction to the acceleration of the body.