

Q26

An electron can give a part of its energy to excite the sodium atom. In this case, it can give up to a maximum of 5.68×10^{-19} J to the atom, thus exciting the atom to energy level $n = 4$. From there on, the atom can de-excite to the ground level in 6 ways, thus producing 6 corresponding emission spectral lines.

Ans: D