7	Ans: B Since the collision is inelastic, there will be a loss of KE hence total KE after collision cannot be E (hence the option of E/2) By principle of conservation of total momentum, the total momentum of both X and Y should remain as p (since Y is at rest).