

|          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
|----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
|          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| 12L3 | Solution: D At point P, the displacement is negative and velocity is negative. For s.h.m. net force <math>F = ma = -m\omega^2x</math>, <math>x</math> is negative implies net <math>F</math> is positive (B and C not possible). As the displacement is negative and the velocity is negative, the displacement will be more negative in the next instant. Hence the force will increase positively. |  |

|    |                    |  |
|----|--------------------|--|
| 13 | Solution: B |  |
|----|--------------------|--|