

3. The wall of the vessel is not a perfect insulator and it might conduct some of the heat away from the vessel resulting in smaller work done.
4. The gas is not ideal. So the collision is not elastic.
5. The wire conducts some of the heat energy from the heater