

		Option D causes a parallax error, which is a random error.
2	A	Vertical acceleration is directly proportional to vertical resultant force. Considering only vertical direction, At P, it experiences weight and drag force in the same direction. At T, it experiences only weight and no drag force because vertical velocity is zero. At Q, it experiences weight and drag force but in opposite direction.
2	B	$U_1 + U_2 = W$