

- 26 In the diagram below, the solenoid of length l which is closely and uniformly wound, carries an alternating current of constant amplitude. A search coil (which is a coil consisting of a few turns of wires) is placed in different positions along the solenoid.

Which one of the following graphs most nearly shows how the amplitude of the e.m.f. E induced in the search coil varies with its position?

