

- 3 A The speed of the projectile should be decreasing to a non-zero minimum on reaching the top of its flight then increasing as it as it returns to the level where it is launched.

Only A satisfies the description of the variation of speed.

Note that the speed is the magnitude of the resultant of the vertical and horizontal velocities. This graph is rarely plotted.

- 4 B The train components share the same acceleration a to the left