

		approximately the same and atom consists mainly of empty space.
30	A	Y and Z are more stable than X. Hence, the binding energy per nucleon of X should be lower than that of Y and of Z.