6 Identical beads are tied at various points on four equal length light inextensible strings. The strings are hung from the ceiling with the lowest bead just touching the floor. Each string is released at the top, so that the beads fall towards the floor. Air resistance is negligible.

When each bead hits the floor, a sound is produced.

Which of the following will result in sound produced at a constant time interval?

