

V_1

- 13 B
- A At higher temperature, the average KE of molecules are higher. Evaporation occur at a faster rate for this reason.
 - B S has negative potential energy while G has negligible.
 - C Water contracts both when melting and condensing, so the atmospheric pressure does positive work.
 - D The specific latent heat of fusion is a lot less than the specific latent heat of vaporization