

|    |          |                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|----|----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|    |          | to Faraday's Law, $\frac{\Delta\phi}{\Delta t}$ is decreasing as a result of reducing flux linkage.                                                                                                |
| 26 | D | $B = \mu_0 n I \propto I$$E = -N \Delta\Phi/\Delta t = -N \Delta BA/\Delta t = -NA \Delta B/\Delta t$Identify the gradients of the I-t graph at various points and factoring in Lenz's law |
| 27 | B | Rms current                                                                                                                                                                                        |